The above table is random and consisting data. Black label is the value of corresponding name and the blue label is percentage. You can find all the information by clicking here: The popular one with suite is Threes! while the Bitwarden app is the one I love more. But I need to add my password to use Bitwarden and it's so tedious I just could not do it. After adding the password, it would ask me to confirm the password. And after that it will be the bitwarden. If you are a user who loves to hide his data and password, then the Bitwarden should be your first choice. You can try it first. And if you don't like it, you can choose Threes with suite. It's not just a text box for password to enter. You can sync your data with Google Drive, Dropbox, Windows Live, and more. The one at the top is the one I love most.
